

European Festivals Festival Time For Austrian Acts

Artist Portrait Bernhard Eder

Looking Back at the Waves Vienna Music Festival & Conference 2012

They say that time flies when you're having fun, and time has definitely flown by since the recent edition of Waves Vienna Music Festival & Conference took place here in Vienna in October. In retrospect, even though the festival is still quite young in age, it has grown overall – there were significantly more music fans visiting the many concerts, almost a third more international delegates traveled to the conference in Vienna, and a far more extensive music program provided the opportunity to discover numerous new and exciting acts.

Composer Portrait: Peter Ablinger

Peter Ablinger belongs to the group of composers who are always searching for the new and unusual in their work and do not understand music as an insular system. The Upper Austrian composer consistently tries to push musical boundaries, to break traditional methods and make room for new approaches. He prefers to act between different art disciplines and combine methods that may not seem compatible at first glance.
